Dan and Diane Holmes has worked at Lighthouse Counseling Center in Jonesburg, AR for the past 10 years. Dan has a Phd in Counseling and Diane has a MS in Counseling. They have been working in the field of psychology and counseling for the last 26 years. Dan's work has taken him from working in an inpatient unit with the severely mentally ill, to teaching at a university as a professor of psychology and counseling to his current position. Diane has worked inpatient and been director of a geriatrics unit.

Diane and Dan, have received over 150 hours of specific training in working with couples. With their training and practical experience they have learned communication is a key when working with people in counseling. Diane and Dan have been able to use this knowledge in presentations and workshops over the last several years. They have developed communication activities to help people learn the positive and negative effects of communication. They are excited to share this information with singles and share their vast information learned and experienced over their 32 years of marriage.

Diane and Dan have four children, three daughters and one son.
